WELCOME

Welcome to the first show of BYMT's 20th Anniversary Summer Season. We are delighted to be returning to The Lyric for the third in the trilogy of Tony Macaulay's much loved series; following the successes of Paperboy and Breadboy, we are now journeying with Tony as he leaves Belfast, enters the wild world of University and begins to actually grow up!

Our Young Company Panel choose the shows we are going to develop and put on and they proposed that we approach this adaptation with a uniquely BYMT angle. This inspired the team for All Grown Up to work with Tony on staying true to the spirit of the memoir, whilst creating new scenes, influenced by real life events, and finding the most collaborative and theatrical way of telling the story for a Company of 37 young performers. Writer and Director Dean Johnson has led the team of professional artists to make a thrilling, moving, musical version of Tony's tales, along with the wonderful young people who have joined us in Belfast over the past two weeks.

BYMT couldn't make the work it does without our brilliant Pastoral and Technical staff supporting the Creative team and young people. We rely on our venue partners to host our shows and enjoy returning to the Lyric, to reconnect with the loyal audiences and make friends with the new. We thank the parents, carers, schools and supporters of the Young Company, who enable these performers and musicians to learn and grow their creative flair, theatrical understanding and social development through BYMT projects. Thank you to everyone who has helped to make this show possible, and to those who have supported the Company through its 20 years. We hope to be making new musicals for many more decades and to continue seeing our young people inspiring the theatre of the future.

A NOTE FROM DEAN JOHNSON

"Some day you will be old enough to start reading fairy tales again." - C.S Lewis

It is perhaps the most universal of all human anxieties. We often spend our teenage years hoping for that single moment where we pass our "Growing Up" exam and receive a certificate in "adulthood". We come to understand, of course, that the learning and growing never stop. Not really.

When I first approached the inimitable Tony Macaulay 10 years ago to ask him very nicely if he would consider allowing his first memoir, "Paperboy" to be adapted into a musical, I was 21, the same age as Tony in All Grown Up, his third memoir. If you had told me then that ten years later we would be here presenting the third instalment of the "Growing Up" trilogy at The Lyric Theatre having already presented sold out runs of the first two, I'd have said you were a wee dreamer, so you were!

What has made these shows so special has been the continued support and development from BYMT, which has allowed us in every venture to bring some of the most talented young people and creative teams from NI and across the globe to tell real stories about real people growing up in Northern Ireland in the 70s and 80s, often in front of the very people who lived those experiences. A huge thanks to BYMT, all our collaborators and especially the young people for bringing that to life.

For those of you seeing a Tony Macaulay story brought to life for the first time, "c'mon in". For those who've seen them all, welcome back. And to anyone who's ever felt those growing pains - this one's for you!

Because we all need fairy stories to help us sleep. Even "grown ups".
